

Coco

"Deals from the brands and stores you love that have no app, no marketing budget, and no way to reach you — until now."

The Real Problem

MTN, Jumia, Chowdeck — they have apps, marketing teams and millions in ad spend. People already know their deals.

The gap is Sinomart doing 30% off LG TVs this weekend. Silverbird Cinema's discount Tuesday. A car dealer's end-of-month clearance. Fouani's new arrival promo.

The only way to know is if you walked past the store or got a WhatsApp forward. Most people miss it entirely.

The Coco Solution

Coco crawls the social media pages, websites and announcements of brands and stores that have no app and no way to reach you directly.

The moment a deal drops — you get a push notification. Not from MTN. From the places nobody else is watching.

One app. Every hidden deal in Nigeria. Instant notification.

How Coco Gets The Data

Instead of crawling apps that already exist, Coco crawls:

- Mall and store social media pages (Instagram, Twitter/X)
- Cinema websites for weekly schedules and promos
- Brand websites that exist but have no app
- Manually curated WhatsApp broadcast intel (early stage)
- Press releases and promo announcements

The moat: the longer Coco runs, the more price history and deal pattern data it accumulates. After 6 months Coco can predict when a brand will run a promo before they announce it.

Monetisation

Hook model: Free access to all deals. After 10 deal opens the experience is established.

Paywall: ■2,000/month for Coco Pro after 10 uses.

Free users get:

Later: brands pay to feature exclusive deals directly on Coco before anywhere else.

Why Coco Wins

Every other deals app in Nigeria aggregates brands that already have apps and already reach their customers. Coco owns the white space — the stores in your mall, the cinema down the road, the electronics shop with no Instagram strategy. These brands have deals. Their customers just never find out. Coco fixes that. And because nobody else is watching these sources, Coco's data is genuinely exclusive.
